Research Experience

08/2024 –,
01 – 12/2023,
06/2020–08/2022

Research Assistant (Graduate Assistant-ship)
Sign Linguistics & Language Acquisition Lab, University of Connecticut
Primary Investigator: Diane Lillo-Martin
(Duties: conduct coding & analysis of the ASL IPSyn (Index of Productive Syntax) of naturalistic longitudinal production data of deaf children; conduct coding & analysis of the vocabulary development in ASL by deaf children; conduct linguistic analysis of code-blending by hearing adults who are native ASL-English bilinguals; conduct ASL annotation)

06 – 08/2020,
2021, 2022,
2023, 2024

Graduate Student Technician
Sign Linguistics & Language Acquisition Lab, University of Connecticut
Primary Investigator: Diane Lillo-Martin
(Duties: same as above)

01/2016 – 06/2017

Junior Research Assistant (full-time)
Centre for Sign Linguistics & Deaf Studies, Chinese University of Hong Kong
Supervisors: Gladys Tang, Jafi Lee
(Duties: conducted glossing annotation of Hong Kong Sign Language naturalistic conversational data by adult native signers; assisted in establishment of Hong Kong Sign Language corpus; assisted in data collection in assessment of deaf children's grammatical knowledge of Mandarin Chinese.)

03 – 06/2015

Student helper (part-time)
Centre for Sign Linguistics & Deaf Studies, Chinese University of Hong Kong
Supervisors: Jia Li, Jafi Lee
(Duties: conducted morphological segmentation of the written production by deaf children in Hong Kong; assisted in data collection of oral production by deaf children in Hong Kong.)

Teaching Experience

Spring 2024 LING 3800 Structure of American Sign Language
(An advanced-level undergraduate course that introduces generative linguistic theory with the focus on sign languages)
Instructor of Record (Graduate Assistant-ship)
Department of Linguistics, University of Connecticut
(Duties: full responsibility for all course components, including preparing lecture slides, exam questions & online course materials, giving lectures for a class of 25 students of ASL/Linguistics major, grading exams & assignments, tutoring students)

Fall 2022 LING 2850 Introduction to Sociolinguistics of the Deaf Community
(An introductory level undergraduate course that discusses sociolinguistic aspects of ASL and Deaf communities in the U.S.)
Instructor of Record (Graduate Assistant-ship)
Department of Linguistics, University of Connecticut
